

HELP PRESERVE AN ERA OF MARITIME HISTORY

The City of Adelaide clipper ship was one of the key vessels that supported the settlement of South Australia and is of major historical maritime significance.

Internationally the vessel is:

- The world's oldest surviving clipper ship of two that survive today
- One of only three large ocean-going composite built ships (wooden planking over a wrought iron frame) in the world still intact
- One of only four surviving sailing ships to have taken emigrants from the British Isles to any destination in the world
- The last surviving vessel of the timber trade between North America and the United Kingdom
- Part of the national Historic Fleet of the United Kingdom
- Considered to be one of the 12 most important historical ships still surviving.
